MISSION

Center for Health Justice views incarceration as an opportunity for change, delivering services that build bridges to healthier lives.

EDUCATION

We provide educational enrichment and counseling in the following areas: health literacy, risk-reduction, substance abuse, medication adherence, partner communication, infectious disease (including HIV), anger management, self-esteem, nutrition, gender roles and norms, body image, and mindfulness.

GUIDANCE

Our transitional case managers and peer navigators serve as personal guides to help link clients into medical, mental health, and essential support services, including housing. This helps make the client's transition smoother when leaving custody. They also stay in touch with clients after release to provide more guidance.

LEADERSHIP

Our peer education program trains clients to educate other clients by delivering quality, competent, and accurate health information. We also advocate for better conditions that support our clients and their communities.

SUPPORT

We offer support group meetings to discuss and process emotions and behaviors, heal and resolve old traumas, achieve greater self-understanding, and foster hope for the future.

COVERAGE

We help clients sign up for health coverage, schedule their health care appointments, and teach them how to use public benefits to achieve stability.

RESOURCES

During and post-incarceration, we allocate resources for our clients, including a toll-free hot-line, 213.229.0979, an inmate newsletter, education and treatment advocacy, health coverage enrollment assistance, and internet and phone use at our Service Center.

EVOLUTION

We're developing enhanced initiatives, including: Women Taking Charge, Global Initiatives, Web-Based Applications, Adolescent Brain Development, Tech-Literacy Trainings, Obesity and Diabetes, and a 24-hour Service Center.
